CYBIRD Co., Ltd.

Cybird acquires 54.55% stake in BottleCube

CYBIRD Co., Ltd. ("CYBIRD"), the mobile operating company of CYBIRD Group, announced the acquisition of a 54.55% stake in BottleCube inc. ("BottleCube"), a subsidiary of IMJ Corporation ("IMJ") with a strong track record of developing mobile services and social games for smartphones.

Strategic Rationale

CYBIRD management is strategically focusing on smartphone and social game service areas in its mid-term business plan. In order to further enhance its resources on these strategic areas, CYBIRD has reached an agreement to acquire the stake in BottleCube that IMJ mobile Inc., a subsidiary of IMJ, currently holds.

BottleCube has a strong track record of releasing hit social and smartphone services including "PUFF!", a huge hit application in AppStore in 2009, and has strength in planning, development and operations of web application services for smartphone and social games.

In the growing smartphone service and social game markets, CYBIRD will continue to strengthen its original and creative mobile services leveraging BottleCube's know-how of smartphone and social games in addition to CYBIRD's existing track record and experience in mobile services.
